Alisa Levinson is a Moldavian/ Russian actress and model living in Los Angeles, California.

Growing up bilingual in Germany and having Russian/ Moldavian parents, she learned to speak five languages (German, Russian, English, French and Spanish). Performing has always been her passion-- starting as a dancer trained in Ballet, Hip Hop, modern and jazz dance in her home town Munich, Germany. Alisa discovered her love for acting at a very young age while performing various plays and musicals at her school and city theaters. At the age of 18 she moved out to Los Angeles by herself to pursue an acting and modeling career. Ever since then, she has acted in different film productions, music videos and plays in the U.S. Alisa's most recent projects was the horror film "The Last Séance", directed by Laura Kulik, where she played the lead character "Anna".
